SPOKE OF GRAFT!

This Subject Came Up in Federation of Labor Convention.

SOUVENIR PROGRAMME

Allegation Made That It was Cause of Graft Among the Smaller Labor Unions.

HOW THE SUBJECT WAS BROUGHT UP.

Pittsburg, November 22st.—The principal feature of Tuesday's sessions of the American Federation of Labor came in the afternoon, when the section of the grievance committee's report was presented asking for the abolition of the souvenir programme in connection with union labor events. Smaller labor unions throughout the country were charged with grafting, forgery and threatening the employers with strikes and boycotts in getting out souvenir books for Labor Day and other occasions. Many of the leading delegates to the convention, including President Samuel Gompers, talked on the question and while the names of the labor unions against which the charges were made were not uncovered labor leaders in almost every city were accused of the practice. A resolution was offered and adopted condemning the issuing of souvenir books by the labor unions and hereafter it is likely that none will be issued.

The exposure came about as a resolution condemning the Philadelphia Central Labor union for using advertisements of firms whose names had been placed on the "unfair list" in the souvenir programme issued last Labor Day. Some of the delegates from small towns were opposed to the resolution prohibiting the issuing of souvenir books, claiming that it was in this manner that the bulk of the money used by the organizations was raised. Finally one of the delegates accused those having charge of the "Federationst," the official organ of the federation, of applying the same measures, but a vigorous denial was made by President Gompers, who is editor of the paper. He said that the "Federationist" never got out souvenirs and challenged any of the delegates to expose any corruption in connection with the publication of the paper.

Late last-night the Colorado delegates announced that Denver has been withdrawn as contestant for the next place of meeting of the federation. The reason given was that the mine owners of the west have a damage suit against the United Mine Workers of America for $610,000, and should delegates from that organization attend a convention in Colorado legal complications would arise that would be to the detriment of the federation.

THE MERMAIDS.

They are Preparing for the Winter Campaign.

The Literary organization known as "The Mermaids" have begun their winters work with a preliminary meeting at the house of their President, Mr. John Meyer, at which time they busied themselves with constructing a programme of study and alluting the work. Telegrams of greeting were ordered by the secretary to be sent to the former members of the club, Dr. F. C. Smith Professor at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., and to Mr. W. P. Wharton of Columbia University, N. Y

The era chosen is "The Period of the Restoration," which may be said to mean the beginnings of modern England, for Oliver Cromwell succeeded in liberating new forces and ideals, and breaking the too powerful grasp of ancient traditions; men began to reconstruct their ways of looking at things, to seek inherent reasonableness and disregard authority as sufficient in itself to claim a following without proving its right. New sciences arose, modern science really began, newspapers are seen ingerm in the "Spectator." The "Royal Society" was founded, Literature assumed new forms, creative genius found new channels of expression, The world became modern. Altogether a period of life and human history, knowledge of which is both fascinating and necessary to the full understanding of our own times.

The men chosen for special study as illustrating forces of thought and literature in the reign of Charles the Second are:

Francis Bacon, 1561—1626.

The father of the scientific method of Induction,

Thomas Hobbes, 1588—1678.

Who formulated the modern idea of a State and opened the doors to political economy.

John Milton, 1608—1674.

Who wrote the epic of Puritanism.

Jeremy Taylor, 1613—1667.

The Shakespeare of the pulpit as illustrating the reconstructed religious thought.

John Bunyan, 1628—1688.

Who looked upon the world from behind prison bars as a strenuous pilgrimage of the soul.

Samuel Pepys, 1632—1703
and John Evelyn, 1620—1706

Whose diaries are the delight of those who love literature.

Sir Thomas Browne, 1605—1672.

The quaint philosopher and physician, who diagnosed the world with the calm aloofness of a keen and self contained spirit.

The Earl of Clarenden, 1608—1674

Whose history is the standard for the preceeding era.

John Locke, 1632—1704

Whose "Essay on the Human understanding" cleared the ground for all future thinking.

Daniel De Foe, 1661—1731
and Jonathan Swift, 1667—1729

Who blazed new paths of literary expression.

Finally Joseph Addison and Sir Richard Steele choice masters of style and the Editors of the all famous "Spectator."

Death of Former Centre County Lady

After a lingering and exhausting illness of six months, Sarah Gingrich, an estimable lady of Tyrone, died at her home in that place, at 1:15 o'clock Sunday morning. Last May she was stricken with pneumonia and her illness had extended with increasing severity since that time, until death finally relieved her of prolonged suffering.

The deceased was aged 73 years, 5 months, 2 days, having been born June 16, 1832, in Juniata county. She resided in Centre county for many years, but the past sixteen years she had made her home with her brother, Rudolph Gingrich, in Tyrone. She was a daughter of Joseph and Fanny Gingrich, both deceased, and of their family of twelve sons and daughters, six now survive: Samuel and John, of Martha Furnace; David, of Winston, Missouri; Mrs. Fanny Rider, of Fairberry, Neb; Kate and Rudolph, of Tyrone. The venerable lady was long a member of the First Presbyterian church of Tyrone, and combined with a consistent Christian faith, a gentle and loving disposition of womanhood, winning the sincere regard of those who knew her.

The funeral occurred Monday afternoon

KANSAS IS ALL O. K!

So Says Governor Hoch of That State

THE HUB OF THE UNION

His Excellency Incidentally Drops Into Poetry in Speaking of the Kansas People.

ADDRESSES MADE AT A BANQUET.

Kansas City, Nov. 21.—Secretary of War William H. Taft, guest of honor last night at the annual banquet of the Commercial club in responding to the toast "The Philippines," said that the Philippine Islands must be ours for more than a generation, and that probably those called on to act as legislators would not live to see the day "when separation consistent with the welfare of the Philippines can be made."

The occasion of the banquet was the anniversary of the signing of the John Jay Commercial treaty. Plates were laid for 600 at the Midland hotel. Senator Warner was toastmaster.

Secretary Taft arrived from St. Louis early in the day. He was escorted from the railroad station by 250 colored troopers of the Ninth cavalry, to the Commercial club rooms, where a public reception was held. After luncheon a drive was taken over the city. Thousands of persons enthusiastically greeted Secretary Taft during the day. Immediately after the dinner the Secretary of War left for Chicago in a special train over the Chicago and Alton railroad When the Secretary arose to speak he was greeted with cheers.

Gov. E. W. Hoch responded to the toast, "There is Nothing the Matter With Kansas," made in reply to William Allen White's famous utterances under the caption "What's the Matter With Kansas?" He said:

"Kansas was fashioned in an heroic mold, and its life has always been intense. In the battle of ideas as well as the battle of bullets Kansas has ever been far out on the firing line. Kansas is neither eastern, northwestern, northern or southern, it is the central state, the hub of the union. It is the rich, juicy meat of the national sandwich. There is nothing the matter with Kansas materially," said Governor Hoch, who, after enumerating the great resources of the state, said:

"But the real greatness of a state is not measured by its geographical location, by its territorial extent, or by its material resources. The real greatness of a state is measured by the character of its people.

"Kansas," he said, "could make the same proud boast made once by a citizen of Maine, 'We raise men here.' Men whom the lust of office does not kill. Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; men who posess opinions and a will; men who have honor—men who will not lie; men who can stand before a demagogue and down his treacherous flatteries without winking. Tall men, sun crowned who live above the fog, in public duty and private thinking."

D. R. Francis, former governor of Missouri, and John S. Wise, of New York, formerly governor of Virginia, also spoke.

Special Term of Court.

The special term of November court opened Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Judge Orvis on the bench. Several petitions were heard and a number of jurors were excused at their own request.

Judge S. J. Telford, of Indiana Co., then went on the bench and the first case brought before him was that of the Bellefonte, Youngwomanstown and Aaronsburg turnpike company vs Centre county. The facts are that some time ago this turnpike was condemned and viewers were appointed to assess the damages to property owners. This suit is an appeal from the award of the viewers. Hon. A. O. Furst, represents the Turnpike Company and Messrs. Love, Spangler and Keller, Centre Co., and the property owners living along the pike.

Concert Friday Evening a Grand Success.

A large and appreciative audience gathered in the Court House Friday evening to hear the concert given under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church.

Miss Marie F. Stoddart of New York City, the soprano, captivated every one with her magnificent singing. She has a voice of unusual range and power, which is at the same time of wonderful sweetness and flexibility, and her enunciation is perfect. Her numbers were admirably selected and delighted her hearers, as was attested by the enthusiastic manner in which they were received.

Mr. Carl H. Tollefsen, one of the first violins in the New York Symphony Orchestra, shared the honors of the evening with Miss Stoddart. His playing was a revelation to all present. His technique left nothing to be desired, while his interpretation was most inspiring and showed great dept of feeling.

Mr. Daniels, choirmaster and organist of Trinity Church, Williamsport, contributed greatly to the artistic success by the masterly way in which he accompanied them at the piano.

Mr. John Hostermen, of Bellefonte, pleased the audience by singing several selections. He has a baratone voice of fine quality and richness of tone. Miss Kate Brisbin accompanied him charmingly.

The program as a whole was a musical treat long to be remembered by the people of Bellefonte and the Society are to be congratulated upon the success of the entertainment.

Woodring Family Reunion.

The following family reunion notice is of peculiar historical isterest to the Woodrings in this coutry as they and the Wotrings referred to below are descendants of the same family and relatives}

The notice says:

An interesting reunion of the Woodring family was held last week at Sand Spring Grove, near Macungie, Pa., on the old Woodring farm, which has been in he family during about a century. In 1770 the premises was granted by the Penns, to Samuel Wotring, who built the first grist mill in this vicinity. It is belived that he came here from France in 1732.

At the recent reunion an organization was effected with R. D. Wotring as president. Rev. W. D. Wotring, Reformer pastor at Nazareth, was appointed historian. Addresses were made by Rev. A. G. Peters, of Bethlehem, and Rev. W. H. Wotring, of Nazareth. The reunion next year will be held in the Sand Spring Grove on August 11, 1906.

The names Wotring, Wattering, Wottring and Woodring are derived from the Alsace—Lorraine French Voiturin. In the early records of the Egypt and union churches in Lehigh county the name is spelled in every possible way. The pastor generally wrote the name phonetically but Rev. Abraham Blumer, Reformed minister, who could speak French and once received a call from a French Reformed church in New York, always wrote it Voiturm or Voitrin. In German the name would be pronounced Wottering or Wotring. The oldest anglicized way of spelling the name is Wotring. Thus it appears on the record of immigrants which landed at Philadelphia between the years 1727 and 1728

ONE HUNDRED PEOPE LOST!

By Sinking of the Steamer Hilda.

MISSED HER COURSE

In a Driving Snow Storm When off the North Coast of France—All Asleep When Crash Came.

DETAILS OF THE AWFUL DISASTER

London, Nov. 20.—The Southwestern railway's cross channel steamer Hilda was wrecked yesterday morning off St. Malo, on the north coast of France, and it is believed that one hundred or more of her passengers and crew were drowned. The Hilda left Southampton Friday night for St. Malo with considerable more than one hundred souls on board.

PASSAGE DELAYED BY FOG

Her passage was greatly delayed by a fog in the channel and when nearing St, Malo she ran into a severe snow storm, apparently missed her course and foundered on the rocks off Jardin lighthouse, three miles from St. Malo.

ONLY A FEW WERE RESCUED.

The company's steamer Ada, outward from St. Malo, rescued five of the passengers and one of the crew These are now on the way to Southampton. There is an unconfirmed report that seventy had been saved. The crew numbered twenty-six, and there were about a hundred passengers, all Frenchmen, the majority being onion dealers from St. Briac and neighborhood.

THE DETAILS ARE MEAGRE.

A telegram from St. Servan, adjoining the town of St, Malo, gives the few particulars yet available. The Hilda was near St. Malo Saturday morning. She struck the rocks at 4 o'clock Sunday morning in the roadstead of the Island of Cezembre, having missed the tide owing to bad weather and fog

NEARLY ALL WERE ASLEEP

The majority of the crew and passengers were asleep at the time. Two boats were lowered, one of which containing five men, arrived at St. Servan. The second boat was picked up empty at St. Cast, where thirteen bodies were washed ashore. The top of the Hilda's funnel and her mast are visible at low tide according to the telegram from St. Servan

DEATH OF TITUS PRIEST.

A Well Known Resident of Osceola Dies at His Son's Home in Philipsburg.

Titus Priest, an aged, well known and highly respected citizen of Osceola, died Tuesday morning shortly after 1 o'clock at the home of his son, Samuel Priest, at Philipsburg. Four weeks ago he went to Pittsburg to visit his daughter, Mrs. Samuel Harris. Being a sufferer for many years with asthma and heart trouble, the change in climate was too great, and the physicians advised that he return home as the only possible chance to prolong his life. Taking their advice he left Pittsburg Monday morning, and instead of stopping at Osceola came to the residence of his son Samuel, arriving here Monday night. He was in a very critical condition, and it is sad to know he only lingered a few hours.

The deceased was aged about 77 years. He was a native of Staffordshire, England. He came to this country when a young man, first settling at Pittsburg. He soon, however, came to Osceola and became one of the first settlers of the town, residing there ever since. His wife died about nine years ago. For nearly twenty years he has been incapacitated from active work on account of his physical condition. Four sons and three daughters are left to mourn his death, viz: Josiah, residing in Kentucky; Esau, Osceola; Samuel, Philipsburg; John living in Ohio; Sarah, wife of Joseph Hobbs, Osceola; Esther; wife of Thomas Griffiths, Morriedale, and Anna, wife of Samuel Harris, Pittsburg. He was a man who had many warm friends, among whom his death will occasion very deep regret, especially in the community where he has so long resided.—Philipsburg Journal

Though the day was bright and clear
God in His great mercy, called the one we loved so dear.

Mother dear your chair stands vacant
And our loss we deeply feel.
But we know it was God that called you
And He will all our sorrows heal.

Mother thou hast gone and left us
Where thy Saintly soul has flown
Tears are wiped away forever
And all sorrow is unknown.

Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life has fled
Then in heaven with joy to greet the
Where our farewell tears are shed.

A BIT OF ROMANCE.

How a Former Teacher of Music in Philisburg Has Secured a Prospective Husband.

The Philadelphia Inquire announces the engagement of Russell Lennon and Miss Helen Frame, the latter a former music teacher in the Philipsburg schools and the former choir master and organist of the First Presbyterain church, Germantown. When the leading soprano singer left the church mentioned above two years ago Mr. Lennon cast about for one to fill her place. He inserted an advertisement in a musical journal, and Miss Frame answered. Although he knew of her by reputation, he never met her personally until the day on which he tried her as a singer. One selection was sufficiet to convince Mr. Lennon that she deserved the reputation she enjoyed, and he at once engaged her services. He soon learned to look upon her as a helper and friend. She became his best and sincerest critic. On rehearsal nights at church she tarried to give a friendly criticism of his performance on the great pipe organ and to go over with him the selections for the next Sunday. At last Mr. Lennon awoke to the knowledge that he was deeply in love with his pretty soprano singer. To him she was indispensable. Great was his joy when he learned that she loved him. The announcement of the engagement is the expected outcome.

COAL IN GREAT DEMAND

Activity Continues to be the Keynote of Commercial Progress.

CHRISTMAS THE CAUSE

There Has Already Been Heavy Distribution in Practically Every Section of the Country.

RAILWAY EARNINGS ARE ENORMOUS

New York, November 18.—Bradstreet's today will say: Activity is still the keynote of the industrial and commercial situation. Colder weather, and the coming Christmas holidays have caused a heavy distribution in practically every section of the country, save in the northwest, where the rather high temperatures and railway congestion prevent the fullest developments. Railway earnings are enormous, but the widespread blockades are assuming a serious phase and tend to curtail production in some industrial lines. Manufacturing lines are remarkably active. Consumption of iron and steel is proceeding at an enormous rate with no apparent sign of a let up in the immediate future. Out door construction work is being conducted on an enormous scale and a shortage of labor is reported from many sections. Commodity prices are steady at close to the highest. Collections, on the whole, are classed as good, but the holding of cotton for highest prices in the south and the car shortages in the northwest render payments somewhat slow in places. Real estate the country over is very brisk. The outlook for spring trade is very promising and, in short, all advices indicate the existence of flourishing conditions. The south, which is in better shape financially than for years in particularly prominent in this respect.

Coal is in active request, the movement on the Great Lakes being especially heavy, owing to the near approach of the close of navigation.

Railway car builders are active lumber hardware, and builders' materials are spelling beyond the average for the season. Co[illegible]tin and lead have advanced in p[illegible]silver is at the highest point reported within the past three years.

Loss of strength in some other materials—cotton and some grades of wool clothes—does not detract in the activity in nearly all manufacturing lines. Eastern shoe manufacturers have all the orders their capital will allow them to cover by purchase of leather is reasonably quiet.

The Renewal a Strain.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic which should avert such serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

More Marital Trouble.

Many readers of this paper not only remember but intimately know W. H. Runkle, an old Pennsvalleyan, who was landlord of the Centre Hall hotel and who went to York after selling out there. Just now he is having his own troubles as his wife, who before marriage was a Miss Poorman, is suing for a divorce, according to the following dispatches which appeared in Wednesday's Philadelphia papers:

"William H. Runkle, a former wealthy hotel proprietor and horseman of this city, and his wife, Mrs. Ada V. Runkle, who have been at domestic odds for more than a year, and whose troubles have been aired in the York county and Baltimore courts, are again claiming the attention of the local courts.

Runkle was arrested yesterday by a private detective of Philadelphia, acting in behalf of Mrs. Runkle. Miss Estella Wagner, a comely young woman of this city, also was arrested by the detective, and she is named as the co-respondent in the divorce proceedings which Mrs. Ada V. Runkle began in the local courts yesterday.

Runkle and Miss Wagner were given a hearing before a local Alderman last night, and upon testimony furnished by the detective each was held under $500 bail.

Mrs. Runkle made a previous attempt to secure a divorce from her husband in the local courts. She also made application for a divorce in Baltimore, and was granted one. When the husband learned of the grant he employed attorneys, and it was found that Mrs. Runkle's name had been mispelled in the application and decree, and that there were other discrepancies. On the strength of these his counsel succeeded in having the decree annulled.

Mrs. Runkle is said to possess considerable wealth. Runkle who met with financial reverses several years ago, has been reduced to comparative poverty.

National Grange Wants Law

Aggressive political action is planned by the leaders of the National Grange, patrons of Husbandry, at its thirty-ninth annual convention, which began a ten-day session in Atlantic City Wednesday.

Amendment of the Oleomargarine law by striking out the word "knowingly" from the clause relating to sales of that product will be demanded by the delegates from Pennsylvania. Within the last years scores of oleomargarine dealers have found immunity from punishment because the sales could not be proved to have been made "knowingly."

The approaching extra session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, the activity in the Pennsylvania politics of "Farmer" William T. Creasy, who is chairman of the State Grange's Legislative committee, and the inevitable reiteration of the Grange's demand that trolley roads in Pennsylvania shall be permitted to carry freight into the rural districts all tend to make the Pennsylvanians prominent.

All the grange leaders are of the opinion that this is the best opportunity the farmers of the nation have ever had to obtain from congress and the several State Legislatures the enactment into law of the Grange policies.

With President Roosevelt committed to the Grange demands for regulations of railroad tariffs, and with the prospect for a parcels post, postal savings banks and national regulation of harmful trusts brighter than it has ever been, the delegates will enter into the work of the convention with a greater enthusiasm than has ever before been manifested.

THE STORK BRINGS JOY

To the household but how about the mother? Has she been joyful during the weeks and months preceding the advent?

Too many mothers find it a time of fearful anxiety because of the knowledge that they are "not in good health." They have allowed weaknesses, pains and drains to accumulate till the health is completely undermined and they are "more than discouraged," and all because they have been misadvised by well-meaning friends or maltreated by an inefficient doctor.

To all such here is the news that there is a remedy that will heal and not hurt.

It was discovered forty years ago by Dr. Pierce who searched Nature's laboratory—the earth, for the remedial agents so liberally provided therein. He took Lady's Slipper root, Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root, Golden Seal root, and by extracting, combining and preserving, without the use of alcohol, the glyceric extracts of these natural remedies he has given to the world DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION, which has to its credit the enviable and unparalleled record of more than a half-million of cures in the last forty years.

"Only those who have given Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a trial can appreciate what a boon it is to suffering women," writes Miss Vinna Seamore, of 33 Elm St., Toronto, Ont. "For two years I suffered intensely from female weakness until life was a burden to me. I had distressing, bearing-down pains so I could scarcely stand up. Had hot flashes, was very despondent, weak, and utterly wretched. My physician gave me treatments but without success. I tried several remedies but obtained no relief until I began to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I began immediately to improve, and in four months' time I was as well and strong as ever."

Spry at 134 Years of Age.

"Thank the Lord, I'm still feeling pretty spry," replied "Mother" Mary McDonald, at the Home for Aged and Infirm Colored Persons, Belmont and Girard avenues, Philadelphia, on Monday, on the occasion of her 134th birthday. The aged negress had just laid aside her corncob pipe, which she has smoked since her girlhood, never having found the use of tobacco inimical to longevity. She has her smoke after every meal.

"Mother" McDonald, a great favorite in the home, has been an inmate since 1887. She was born in Frogtown, near Valley Forge, November 13, 1771, and when a child went to live as a servant with the family of Rose Howell. She remembers incidents of the memorable winter the American army spent at Valley Forge, and said: "The guns were always going off and skeered us at night."

Her four grandsons, ranging in age from sixty to seventy years, come to see her regularly, and until his death, a month and a half ago, her son-in-law, who was past ninety, came whenever he could.

RICHES IN NEW WHEAT

Cereal For Macaroni Now Largely Exported to Europe.

THRIVES ON THE ARID PLAINS

Secretary Wilson Says France and Italy Demand Millions of Bushels at Good Prices and Will Take All That Americans Can Send—Best Muscle Builder of Any Food.

"We shall receive in Marseilles," writes Consul General Skinner, "before the end of the year something like a million bushels of macaroni wheat from America, the first of that variety to be shipped to France in commercial quantities. As Marseilles is the greatest market for hard wheat in the world, the advent of the United States as the furnisher of raw material is regarded with a great deal of interest. I understand that the most of this grain was grown on land which will not produce the ordinary wheat. A few years ago when the macaroni manufacturers of Marseilles asked us for hard wheat it was discovered that the variety they wanted was not grown in the United States at all. Thereupon Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture consented to take up the matter and has pushed it with such energy and great success that our farmers will soon be able to supply the French and Italian markets, which are now almost entirely dependent upon the wheat fields of northern Africa. The fact that we have taken a million bushels at Marseilles this year goes far to show that demand and supply are in a fair way to adjust themselves with great benefit to our people."

"We will send 6,000,000 bushels of macaroni wheat this year to France, Italy and other parts of Europe," said Secretary Wilson when I called his attention to the dispatch of Consul General Skinner, writes William E. Curtis, the Chicago Record-Herald's Washington correspondent. "We will send 8,000,000 bushels to the macaroni makers of France, and they are paying a premium for it and will take all that we can send. This peculiar quality of wheat," continued the secretary, "is not only good for macaroni, but is superior for ordinary purposes, particularly for countries like France and Italy, where the people eat more bread and less meat. The diet of French workingmen, and Italians also, is very largely bread and wine and a few olives, and hence they want good bread, strong bread, bread that is nourishing and muscle building. This macaroni wheat which we are just beginning to send to France and other countries of southern Europe is richer in protein than any other wheat. It is the best muscle builder of any food we have. It makes men strong, and therefore the Europeans, who eat little meat, need it more than we do and are calling for it, while our millers have tried to decry it."

"Where did this wheat come from, and how long have you been growing it?"

"The agents of the agricultural department brought it from Russia and northern Africa about five years ago," replied Secretary Wilson, "and we distributed the seed around among our experimental farms and among farmers who were willing to give it careful attention until it has spread over a considerable part of the west and has extended the wheat area of the United States more than a hundred miles into the semiarid regions and has enabled our farmers to cultivate with profit land which was supposed to be fit for nothing but pasture for wild steers. It is the best crop we know of for a dry climate. I would not recommend it for an ordinary wheat country, but it will flourish where other wheat will not grow. It needs only ten inches of rain for a crop, and a wide zone of hitherto useless land on the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains, which has had too little moisture for ... yields large ... quality of macaroni wheat. It requires careful attention, however. It must be cultivated with patience and skill.

"There are two varieties of macaroni wheat—that which comes from Russia being the best for flour," said the secretary, "and that which comes from northern Africa being the best for macaroni. I do not see why we should not supply the greater part of the European market with macaroni wheat. It would be good for the people over there, and it would be good for us."

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

BRIGHT FUTU... FOR JEWS.

Jacob H. Schiff Says America Will Produce Greatest of the Race.

Jacob H. Schiff recently told an audience at the headquarters of the Educational alliance in New York that the crossing of the five or six Jewish races now in the United States would make in future the greatest Jew of all ages, says the New York Times. Mr. Schiff in a five minute speech spoke of the outrages in Russia, the consequent exodus of the race to the United States and its encouraging prospect here. He said that the great Jew as a citizen and power was yet to develop and that the United States would produce him. Mr. Schiff's speech was an incident of the regular meeting of the alliance presided over by Isidor Straus, at which the annual report was read and the board of directors was rechosen. He said:

"The Jew is passing through a crisis. The present turmoil in Russia must have serious consequences for the Jews of the United States and the world, but the increased immigration to this country as a result of this turmoil should not worry us, because there is room on our shores for thousands and thousands of people who are obliged to leave the old world. We must keep our doors wide open to those who leave under forced conditions, and we must welcome all who elect to come from Russia.

"Now a word about the alliance. The work of this body is not thoroughly appreciated. The difficulty with the Jews is that where their hearts have been appealed to, as, for instance, in the construction and maintenance of hospitals, they have always responded very liberally, but where their heads have been appealed to, as in this case, where education is the foundation, alas, they are lacking, and they are not ready in response. In this respect we must do our duty to ourselves, else our children will suffer.

"If we do our duty now the Jew to come will be the greatest Jew that has lived in all times. The crossing of the five or six Jewish races united here in this country will make the American Jew the greatest Jew that has lived in any era. And if we are to have complete salvation for the Jew, if the world is to get the benefit, and if the Jew's mission is to give it, we must do our duty now."

In replying Mr. Straus appealed for more money for the alliance. Incidentally he remarked that Russian and other persecutions must cease and forced immigration will end. It was the duty of all, however, to open their pocketbooks in order that the immigrants coming in might be educated.

WOULD KILL ALL RATS.

Chinaman Starts Crusade on Germ Carrying Rodents.

Emilo Ferdananzo of Manila was in Kansas City a few hours recently on his way to Champaign, Ill., where he will take a course in the agricultural department of the state university, says the Kansas City Times.

"At Honolulu," said he, "I met Dr. M. Yit, a noted Chinese bacteriologist, who is on his way to this country in the interest of a scientific crusade against rats. Of late years in the far east their rate of propagation has been alarmingly large, and since modern scientists have declared that rodents are responsible for all the plagues that sweep China and India the question of getting rid of them has become an important one. They are said to have bred the germs that caused the black and bubonic plagues, and a recurrence of them is feared. Dr. Yit hopes to interest the Washington government, England, Germany, France and Japan in the movement to kill the rats off."

Gold Money Baked In a Cake.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Richmond of Lima, O., recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary attended by near relatives and the immediate family, says the Columbus (O.) Dispatch. A feature of this unusual event was the placing of fifty twenty-dollar gold pieces in the huge cake and as it was carved the coins falling to various members. One son was so fortunate as to receive three of the eagles in his one slice of the anniversary sweets.

The Early Shopper.

She's begun her Christmas shopping;
From now on she'll stew and fret.
Every night she'll totter homeward
With her precious nerves upset;
Every morning she will bravely
Hurry forth again to shop.
She will start in at the basement
And work slowly to the top;
She will price about a thousand
Things she doesn't wish to buy,
And she'll paw goods over, leaving
Each department with a sigh.
She has started good and early,
So that when the rush occurs
And the people fight for trinkets
She'll have purchased all of hers.
Thus, dear lady, she explains it,
But it's very safe to bet
That up to the latest minute
She'll have something still to get.

NINE MEN KILLED!

By Explosion of Gas in Mines at Bentleysville.

ORDERS DISOBEYED

Only Safety Lamps Were to be Used on Account of Gas But a Battered Torch Was Found.

WORKING TO RECOVER LOST BODIES

Monongahela City, Pa., November 16.—Undoubtedly killed and probably blown to pieces, eight men are lying in the depths of the new shaft of the Braznell Coal company, on the out skirts of Bentleysville, while another outside the mine is dead as the result of a gas explosion Wednesday.

The Braznell Coal company has been sinking the new shaft since last summer. Two weeks ago it was learned that a pocket of gas had formed in the bottom of the mine which is 185 feet deep. Orders were given for all the men to work with safely lamps and this had been done Three shifts of men were employed by Contractor and General Superintendent Buzzo. Late Wednesday Day Boss Faragut and his six men without thought of danger stepped into the cage and descended into the mine. They were building a concrete water ring or ditch, fifty feet down the shaft in order to catch dripping water.

About five minutes after the men descended, a terrible explosion occurred, which blew huge pieces of timber out of the mine like skyrockets as high as 150 feet in the air. The tipple and all the mine riggings were torn down and debris scattered in heaps all around. A shovel which lay at the top of the shaft was hurled with such violence that it sank four inches in a plank. What must have befallen the eight men down in the shaft is terrible to contemplate. It is believed that they were instantly killed and probably fell to the bottom of the shaft. John McCatey, on the outside was killed by the falling tipple and others were seriously, though not fatally hurt.

Coroner Sipe at Washington and Mine Inspector Harry Louteit, at Monongahela were immediately notified. The latter arrived at 5.30 o'clock. He gave as his opinion that the explosion was caused by fire damp. He believes the gas came seeping upward and reached the miners' lampe just as it was at the explosive point. But as it would have been practically impossible for safety lamps in working order to ignite the gas, it is a mystery what actually did ignite it. There must have been some kind of open light used. An ordinary miners' torch badly battered which was found near the mouth of the shaft tends to indicate that some one disobeyed orders and carried a lighted torch into the shaft.

A HISTORIC GUN.

Brief History of a Carbine Picked up on the Gettysburg Battle Field by the Late Fred Yocum.

James Nixon has placed on exhibition in the G. A. R. room at Philipsburg, a cavalryman's breech-loading carbine having some interesting history attached to it. The gun was picked up on the Gettysburg battle field by our late townsman, Fred. Yocum, deceased, immediately after the great contest. It was first wrapped in a woolen blanket, and having a gum blanket as an outward cover. Fred took the gun and stored it away in a ledge of rock at the Devil's den. Twenty-five years afterwards he visited Gettysburg and made a search for the gun, but without success. A little later, he went back to the historic battle ground again and continued his search for the old carbine. To his glad surprise the gun was found in the very ledge where he had placed it. He brought it home and up until his death greatly appreciated his find. Mr. Nixon recently purchased the gun from Mr. Yocum's widow, and esteems it a relic of great interest and kindly places it in the G. A. R. room where others may have the pleasure of seeing it.

EARLE C. TUTEN.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 1905

The International Board of Consulting Engineers who are acting in advisory capacity to the Panama Canal Commission voted last week on the subject of the type of canal to be adopted. Their decision has not yet been made public but will be early next week. When it is once decided whether the canal is to be of the lock type or built at sea level, the work can proceed with more rapidity. But up to date there has been a great deal done, how much very few people in the United States seem to know or care. There has been a great deal of criticism of the canal commission for not proceeding faster. But the fact is that the work has been pushed as rapidly as possible considering the number of changes in the commission and engineers that have been necessary.

The decision as to the type of canal marks an important period in the work, and it is just as well to consider at this moment what has already been accomplished. In the first place the Isthmus has been cleaned up as it was never thought possible to do it. In fact the work of the sanitary corps under Col. Gorges has been as important as the digging of the canal itself. For the sanitation of the Isthmus has made it a habitable strip. The French tried to do the canal work without the preliminary sanitation and failed utterly. Of course partisan critics will profess themselves skeptical of the amount of work actually done. But the records of the war Department state the following as some of the things accomplished. A sewer system has been advised for the town of Panama and is half completed. The town is being paved with brick for the easier cleaning and policing, and there has been installed a complete system of water works so that for the first time in three centuries the inhabitants will have good drainage and a pure drinking supply. There will be three other water systems necessary, one for the Culebra, one Empire and a third for Cristobal and Colon. All these are under way. By cleaning the towns and killing the mosquitoes, the yellow fever cases have been reduced from 61 in June to 3 in October. There are now 13,000 laborers on the ground and the rate of sickness is only 25 per 1,000 which would be considered moderate in a northern climate.

In the line of actual construction the United States inherited the unfinished French work which consisted of fifteen miles of sea level canal at the North end and five miles at the South. The work has eaten into the great Culebra Hill to a point 140 feet above sea level. This hill is 340 feet high and ten miles wide and has been the great bugbear of a canal line at Panama. There are 20 steam shovels now on the ground and sixty more ordered or on their way to the scene of the work. The Panama railway has been double tracked with the exception of nine miles which will soon be doubled also. This is not a bad showing for the work up to date. There has been a great deal of opposition to the canal from the railroad interests which will of course be affected by it and there probably will be a great many more calamity howls to the effect that it is an engineering impossibility. But one can consider the progress made with a great deal of satisfaction and the assurance that in about five year the work will be completed.

THE GREAT VOGUE OF SILK.

Elaine Roze's Impressions of Paris Styles—Fastidiousness in Lingerie.

After a careful study of the models shown in this fashion centre of the world—bright sunny Paris—I have culled the best and most settled features of the leading fashions for you, carefully avoiding the over elaborate and exaggerated styles which one often sees in so-called fashion plates and which, if copied, would make the wearer outre enough to grieve all judicious beholders.

Paris modistes are excelling all their former efforts and women are so gowned today that it would require but a slight stretch of the imagination to fancy one is looking upon an embodiment of a beauty painted by an old master, for indeed nothing of beauty other eras escapes the artistes of fashion of this period.

Another silk season is before us! Another season of this Queen of fabrics and the periodical attempts to oust the favorite seem powerless to stem its popularity. A glance at the shop windows of the Rue de la Paix and at the fashionable women of Paris tells the story—Paris says silks! And the fact that a large proportion of the model gowns purchased by American modistes in Paris are of silk would alone confirm the Paris decree, but a novel enterprise on the part of an astute American firm (let the Eagle scream;) to open a shop in New York where silks only will be shown, with the motto of the shop "nothing but silks." prove that the appreciation of Miladi Americaine for the soft and exquisite product of the silk loom is undiminished.

Some of the most beautiful silks, which fully revealed the supple airiness of old time rich textures, were shown me in process of weaving in that City of Silks, Lyons. These were being made to the order of the "Nothing but Silks" shop which I understand is to open this Autumn in the famous "Flatiron" neighborhood.

One would think the height of fastidiousness had been reached in lingerie, but with the craze for the handworked blouses, the majority being in English eyelet embroidery, the corset cover has become an important and expensive item in the dainty woman's outfit, and with the foundation of a perfectly built corset, such as the C—B a la Spirite, a beribboned and belaced corset cover, a dainty and picturesque kimona and a coquettishly frilled and furbellowed silk petticoat, milady en negligee presents a most charming picture of sweet dainty womanhood.

A GREAT BEAR STORY.

In Which Tyrone Postmaster and a Coal Operator Figures.

Lawshe Baird, coal operator, of Osceola Mills, and Postmaster John McCamant, of Tyrone, had a thrilling moonlight encounter with three bears about 11 o'clock Thursday night.

The two men left Unionville in the evening in a carriage to drive to the camp of the Ranger Hunting club, of Tyrone, at the head of Beech Creek. They lost their way, and, stopping the team, got out to examine the road, when there was a terrifying growl and an old she bear and two hungry cubs came crunching through the brush.

The horses took fright and started with the carriage and gone, leaving the men at the mercy of the bears.

The only weapon they had was a little 32-calbre pocket revolver, carried by Baird, and as the mother bear approached on her haunches Baird stuck the revolver in her face and fired. The bullet struck in the right eye and penetrated the brain, and Bruin rolled over dead.

In the meantime McCamant secured a huge club and attacked the cubs. He succeeded in dispatching one, and when he turned to look for the other he heard it making off through the brush, and with it disappeared the men's handbag, which they had dropped in their flight.

The men have since found their comrades and recovered their big game.

LIFE ON PANAMA CANAL

How Builders of the Big Ditch Are Faring.

IMPORTANT PROBLEMS SOLVED.

None of the Nearly Seventeen Thousand Workers That Is Not Well Fed and Housed—How "Gold Men" Differ From "Silver Men"—Where Meal Ticket Reigns.

It has been the interesting task of a week to learn how employees at work in the Panama canal zone are faring, writes a special correspondent of the New York Herald at Pedro Miguel, in Panama. This has been done by walking from point to point where they are employed and mixing and living with them. The result is a gratifying surprise. It can be stated that none of the 16,825 employees of the United States on the isthmus, of whom 2,731 are white, is suffering from insufficient or bad food, poor quarters or neglect. Every one is well fed, well housed and looked after with almost fatherly care even to the nightly ringing of a curfew bell at the big Culebra camp.

If any one is suffering from any cause in nine cases out of ten he is to blame for it and never should have left the States. On the whole, the habits of the young men who have accepted places on the isthmus are surprisingly good. Little or no drunkenness is seen, and the men take good care of themselves.

Problems of housing and feeding the men at work seem to have been solved, and they have been vexatious. As an army fights on its stomach, so does a corps of undisciplined, inexperienced civilians in a foreign land, where the very air is supposed to breathe disease and death. But that danger has been grossly exaggerated and is laughed at by Americans who have lived in perfect health for years on the isthmus.

As a rule, those who have returned home disgusted by a short experience at canal building have been men who worry or boys who became homesick and were unused to going without any of the comforts of home. There was a time when necessaries were hard to get and conditions tried the souls even of seasoned campaigners, but John F. Stevens, the chief engineer, hit upon a plan to better these conditions and was fortunate in selecting Mr. Jackson Smith as manager of the branch of labor and quarters, to whom was given the duty of carrying out his ideas. It was the substitution of hotels and mess halls to be conducted by the canal commission instead of continuing to allow contractors to feed the men and leaving them to rely on fortune to secure comfortable quarters.

There are now a half dozen of these "I. C. C.," or commission hotels, patronized by the "gold men," as the higher class of white employees are called. This is because they are paid in gold. The laborers, who are mostly negroes from Jamaica and Martinique, are paid in silver and known as "silver men." They are provided with kitchens and housed in comfortable quarters. The first of the hotels was opened at Corozal on Aug. 15. It is a sightly structure with wide porches and galleries and many windows and doors. It has fifty-six rooms and 200 men can be fed there. There is a similar, but smaller, mess hall at Pedro Miguel, one at Paraiso and one at Empire, in each of which 100 men can be accommodated.

One hundred and fifty more are taken care of at Zorgona. The hotel at Culebra is an immense building, 250 by 50 feet, three stories high, with an annex nearly as large. Here meals can be given to over 300 at a time and rooms to nearly that number. There is another hotel building at La Boca, and four more are in contemplation to be placed at Bas Obispo, Cristobal, Bohio and Ancon. To each building is given an ample number of bathrooms, which, with the system of sewerage adopted, makes them healthy and attractive as places of residence.

Without the knowledge of any one of his intention, the Herald correspondent recently took the train at Panama and got off at Pedro Miguel for luncheon. He found about a hundred clean cut, earnest American employees sitting in a tidy, cool room at tables that were as well appointed as those of a restaurant of the better class in the States. The meal consisted of soup, kidney stew, boiled beef, mashed potatoes, bread and butter and coffee. It was well cooked, wholesome and well served. The charge was the same as to the men, 30 cents. The 90 cents the men pay a day for meals includes the cost of caring for their quarters, which are furnished free by the commission. Under this system the cost of living for the gold employee does not exceed $27 a month. For that sum he gets all a reasonable man could expect. Talks with fellow diners showed them to be fully satisfied with their surroundings and to have no complaint to make about their condition.

In starting to work out Mr. Stevens' plan for commission hotels for men out on the line Jackson Smith adopted a peculiar working basis for determining the size of quarters. He decided that each "gold man" should have one foot of floor space for every dollar of salary he received a month. Mr. Smith is now known as Square Foot Smith. Rooms for single men were made 12 by 15 feet, with two beds, for men earning under $150 a month. All earning over that get a room to themselves. Married men have the same space in cottages, with equal space for their wives and each grown dependent. Children get [illegible] space for each year of their age. The kitchen and bathroom are not included in the family allowance. This plan has so far worked admirably. It precludes the charge of favoritism in the assignment of quarters, the men making no objection to being graded according to pay. Square Foot Smith has become a character.

For the purpose of properly locating the commission hotels the canal zone was divided by the branch of labor and quarters into three divisions. The first extended from Cristobal to Bohio and was placed under the assistant manager, Henry Burnett; the second, under Lieutenant R. E. Wood, U. S. A., took in all stations from Bohio to Pedro Miguel, and the third dealt with camps from Pedro Miguel to La Boca, and was placed under the management of the superintendent, J. M. Maguire. Each division was subdivided for quartering purposes and was left to supervisors, who personally see that all employees are given rooms and that the rooms are taken care of. In addition, each division has a supervisor of kitchens, where food for "silver men" is prepared, and there is a hotel manager who looks after everything.

Large hotels, such as are at Corozal and Culebra, are not considered the type that is wanted. It has been found that they throw together too many people of various temperaments, who are not as happy, it is thought, as they would be in cottages having two, four, six or eight rooms each. Several of these are now being built for bachelors. In these they can establish their own mess if they like or go to the hotel for meals. Every camp has a doctor.

The larger camps have hospitals, where mild cases are treated, which, if necessary, are removed to Aneon or Colon, where the large hospitals are located. Each bachelor has in his room a bed, a dresser, washstand, table, chair, lamp and the inevitable mosquito canopy, under which he must sleep. The men do not take to the canopies, but the doctors insist upon their use, and the penalty for disobedience is expulsion from the isthmus.

Tables in the dining room are arranged for four, and there is always a bottle of quinine on each, with instructions to take one tablet of three grains at dinner every day. A lemon or lime is beside the plate at every meal and there is an abundance of iced tea and lemonade.

Meals for the "gold men" in the field and those in the city differ in that in town the Spanish custom of coffee and fruit, with perhaps a roll or an egg for breakfast, does not satisfy the Americans who have a hard forenoon's work ahead of them. They want the solid breakfast they are used to at home, and they get it. The meal hours extend from half past 5 to 7 o'clock. As furnished to the correspondent, who sat with 168 employees at the Hotel Culebra, it consisted of a cereal, a steak, potatoes, eggs, hot biscuits and a choice of tea, coffee or chocolate.

It was stated that in lieu of the steak the hotel was prepared to serve bacon, ham, hash, stew or mackerel. For luncheon, or what would constitute breakfast for the employees in Panama and Colon, there were soup, two kinds of meat, three vegetables, bread and butter, fruit, tea, coffee and chocolate. The dinner was practically the lunch over again, with fish, salad and dessert added. No extras of any kind are allowed either for eating or drinking except in case of sickness, when toast or any delicacy that can be obtained is furnished. The food was excellent, bountiful and cleanly served.

A correspondingly good showing is made in the "silver quarters." The laborers' houses are one story and about 50 by 40 feet in one room. They hold from forty to seventy-two men. The cots are iron frames, covered with canvas, three tiers high, similar to those used on army transports. Until a laborer draws his first pay he is fed at the kitchens for 30 cents each day. For this he gets soup, beef two or three times a week, rice, beans, bread and coffee. After his first pay day it is optional where he eats. Many have preferred to buy their own food and cook it in tin cans in the open, but the number now returning to the kitchens is increasing.

Hotels have been tried for two months and a half under the management of clerks chosen from the branch of labor and quarters. These were men inexperienced in the hotel business, but they have done exceedingly well. The hotels will now be turned over to professional stewards, who, it is expected, will give still better results. No money is taken for meals except from nonemployees, and in such case a numbered ticket is issued, which must be accounted for to the auditor. The hotel people handle little or no cash. Employees are required to use hotel coupon books issued from the auditor's office. Each book contains fifty thirty cent coupons and is good for fifty meals at any of the commission's hotels on the isthmus. An employee may therefore get a meal anywhere he may chance to be on the zone at the same price he pays at the regular hotel and without being charged at his regular hotel for a meal he did not have. The $15 for the book is charged to him on the payroll. The book can be obtained at any period of the month after its value has been earned, and before that time the employee can obtain meals on a letter from his department's head.

Changes in the general feeling of employees since the establishment and successful management of the commission hotels are very noticeable to those who noted their feelings under the old contract system. It is certain that now the small army of "gold men" is in good spirits and generally contented, if not actually happy. The patriotic impulse to build the canal without scandal and in the least possible time, so that it may be a credit to the American nation and thus add to its prestige for ability, push and honesty, is a sentiment expressed from one end of the zone to the other.

600 KILLED AT VLADIVOSTOK

Nearly Half the City Was Burned During Rioting.

Tokio, Nov. 20.—An eye-witness of the recent riot at Vladivostok, who has arrived at Nagasaki, reports that nearly half the city was burned and that 600 of the garrison were killed, that the jail was thrown open and that General Kappek is missing. The damage is estimated at $25,000,000. Soldiers from Harbin are reported to have joined the rioters.

Russian Strike Fails.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 20.—The strike demonstration begun by the radical elements against the government which for the past several days threatened the life of the very empire, collapsed like a bubble. By a decisive vote the workmen decided against a continuance of the strike, and there is now hope that the Liberal element will rally to the support of Count Witte in putting into operation the reforms granted by the emperor.

In announcing its decision to call off the strike the workmen's council claims a great victory has been won, and that the lives of 1600 Cronstadt mutineers have been saved. This, in fact, is true, the government having backed down from its purpose to execute the bulk of the revolting soldiery.

WILL SUE CONTRACTORS

Philadelphia to Try to Recover Money Due As Result of Fraud.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21. — Strikingly similar to the action taken by the district attorney last week, John L. Kinsey, city solicitor of Philadelphia, announced that he was in accord with Mayor Weaver and would carry out to the utmost of his ability the prospective litigation in connection with the building of the filtration system of the city. Mr. Kinsey's appointee is William M. Meredith, and he takes the place of Thomas D. Finletter, an assistant city solicitor, who resigned. The district attorney and the city solicitor are elected by the people, and the mayor has no authority over them.

City Solicitor Kinsey in a statement said that he would co-operate with the mayor and Judge Gordon in an effort to recover money due the city as a result of frauds alleged to have been committed by certain contractors, and that he would in every way aid in bringing about the reforms instituted by the mayor. He also announced that there would be a "complete reorganization of his office, so that in all its parts it will be so constituted as to be in thorough sympathy with the movement for municipal regeneration."

HOLOCAUST IN GLASGOW

Thirty-nine Dead and Thirty-two Hurt In Fire In Lodging House.

Glasgow, Nov. 20.—The most terrible fire that has occurred in Great Britain for many years broke out here in a cheap lodging house for men in Watson street and resulted in the loss of 39 lives and the severe injury of 32 others.

The flames were first noticed on the fourth floor of the building, which was occupied by 330 men. An alarm was raised, and the firemen responded quickly, but flames and smoke were then issuing from most of the windows on the fourth floor. An extraordinary scene was created by a procession of almost naked men rushing out of the entrance to the building, and against their frantic efforts to escape the firemen had actually to fight for admission.

The dead men were mostly workmen in the prime of life. They presented a horrible spectacle, their blackened faces bearing evidence of the terrible struggle to escape.

BURIED IN 40-T. STEEL INGOT

Dead Funeral of Workmen Who Were Overwhelmed In Molten Steel.

Philadelphia, Nov. 20. — A funeral without a parallel in this city took place at the Midvale Steel works, where a 40-ton ingot of steel, permeated with the flesh, blood and bones of two workmen, was buried with the solemn rites of the Roman Catholic church. The workmen who were so strangely laid away were John Forkin and Joseph Gazda, two foreign-speaking laborers, who met a horrible death a week ago. They were in a pit near a cupola containing many tons of molten steel. A plug gave way and 80,000 pounds of the fiery fluid poured from the cupola and overwhelmed them. The men were completely incinerated and not a trace of themselves nor their clothing was left.

The Midvale Steel company was averse to selling the steel or using it for the purpose it was intended, and it was decided to bury it with the rites of the church to which the unfortunate men belonged. Accordingly the 40-ton ingot, oval in shape, 28 feet long, 6 feet wide and 5 feet thick, was moved by a travelling crane to the rear of the machine shop, where a grave 10 feet deep had been made.

A great crowd sought admission to the works, but only the two sisters of Gazda, who depended upon him for support, and about 100 workmen who were on Sunday duty, were permitted to attend the services, along with the officials of the company. Forkin had no relations in this country. All heads were bared and flags were lowered to half staff while two priests conducted the services. After the sisters of Gazda had been led away the great ingot was covered with earth and the funeral party dispersed. The grave of the men will be appropriately marked by the company.

A $1,614,000 BLAZE

Warehouse Containing 810,000 Gallons of Whiskey Burned.

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 20.—At the A. Overholt distillery at Broadford, $10,000 gallons of whiskey furnished a spectacular fire, entailing a loss of $1,614,000. The main bonded warehouse was burned to the ground. A steady northeast wind, which blew the flames toward the Youghiogheny river, saved the town of Broadford, the buildings of the H. C. Frick Coke company and the B. & O. station from destruction. Smoke was first seen issuing from the third-story of the building, which was alongside the B. & O. tracks. Joseph McDonald and George Patckin, employes of the company, climbed up the fire escape and opened one of the small iron doors. They were caught in a suffocating cloud of smoke, which suffocated them, and they dropped upconscious on the fire escape. They were rescued by other workmen and a general alarm was sounded. The blue-tinged flames from the burning alcohol were soon shooting more than 100 feet into the air. As barrels of old rye whiskey on each of the four floors burst, the blazing liquid was splashed in all directions.

It is supposed that the fire started either from spontaneous combustion or from a spark thrown by a passing locomotive down one of the airshafts. The A. Overholt company is one of the largest manufacturers of whiskey in the world.

GRANGERS FAVOR TEMPERANCE

"Every Community Should Be Empowered to Vote Saloon From Its Midst."

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 21.—The National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, went on record in favor of temperance and the curtailing of saloons, declaring "that they should be abridged until they are abolished." A resolution says: "Every community should be empowered by law to vote every saloon from its midst or its borders." The grange strongly condemned all influences brought to win legislation by lobbyists or others, and deplored the use of money in campaigns. "The recent agitation," says a resolution, "and investigations in regard to extravagance in the management of our great financial institutions, the exposure of graft in high places and the enormous power exercised by great transportation companies through combined arrangements have aroused the people to a realization of the necessities of vigorous action if they would protect themselves against the inordinate desires of wealth."

Among other resolutions adopted during the day was one strongly urging congress to enact a law to prohibit the making of cigarette papers, as well as cigarettes. The grangers endorsed the establishment of country high schools by a combination of district schools.

A Health Guard.

Is a great blessing in a sickly season, especially when such diseases as the grip, pneumonia, and diphtheria, which are so serious in themselves or their effects are going the rounds.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills are the best health guards, keeping up the purity and abundance of the blood, the vigor and tone of all the organs and functions.

They are often the stitch in time that saves nine. Take them for protection and begin taking them now.

Louisa Thrall, Francis, Pa, says: "We find Hood's Sarsaparilla excellent for toning up the system. It keeps us well and strong."

Accept no substitutes for Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills, for no substitutes act like them.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Opening of the Hunting Season.

Nearly 200 Centre county hunters went to the mountains Tuesday, fully equipped to open camp and be ready for the opening of the deer season Wednesday. Such an exodus of sportsmen has never been known before, a fact undoubtedly due to the shortness of the season this year.

As early as last Saturday deer hunting parties started for the mountains. Several went Monday, but Tuesday's exodus broke the record. In all twenty hunting clubs, running from five to twenty men, went into Allegheny Mountains and Seven Mountains from this county alone, while hunting parties from Philadelphia, Reading, Pittsburg, Punxsutawney, Clearfield, Altoona and Tyrone also went into camp on the Alleghenies today, so that 400 or 500 is a safe estimate of those who went out on the trail Wednesday.

Deer are reported very plentiful, and the opening should be auspicious, as there is slight tracking of snow on the mountains.

Holiday Recipes.

It may be remembered that with a former Thanksgiving number of The Philadelphia Sunday Inquirer a cook book was issued as a special supplement and the entire edition was sold out early in the day.

So great was the demand and so many requests have been received for copies that The Inquirer now makes the announcement that it has had prepared a new cook book of thirty-two pages, filled with the newest, well-tried and up-to-date recipes, handsomely printed and tastefully illustrated in colors.

This will be given away free with every copy of the great Thanksgiving Number of The Philadelphia Sunday Inquirer, next Sunday, November 26, and if the former success is an indication, there will be a record-breaking demand for this issue. It would seem to be the part of wisdom to order it in advance this time.

November's Compensations.

Oft we see the landscape frosted
In November.
Oft by chill winds we're accosted
In November.
Oft a cold wave sets us quaking
When an outing we are taking,
And at times our bones are aching
In November.

With the furnace we get busy
In November.
Gas bills start to make us dizzy
In November.
There's a dearth of vegetation,
And we're filled with indignation
As we note price elevation
In November.

But of comforts there are many
In November.
Of bold flies there are not any
In November.
Fierce mosquitoes, too, stop swinging
Round our beds, where they were stinging,
For to warmer points they're winging
In November.

There is feasting of the finest
In November.
We behold the fowl divinest
In November.
All the pleasures of Thanksgiving,
None of which we're negativing,
Make us mighty glad we're living,
In November.

Just review each strong attraction
In November
And you'll find there's satisfaction
In November.
There's another thought endearing,
And that should assist in cheering,
For glad Christmas time we're nearing
In November.

Long March For a Battery.

The longest march ever made by a battery of artillery in the United States was recently commenced at Junction City, Mo., when the Nineteenth battery of field artillery, which was organized at Junction City in 1901 and which has been there ever since, started overland for Fort Douglas, Utah, a distance of over 1,200 miles, says a Junction City correspondent of the Kansas City Journal. The battery is commanded by Captain J. C. W. Brook. It will follow the Union Pacific railway from Junction City to Ogden, Utah. The equipment that will be taken across the country consists of the new rapid fire field guns, with which twelve of the batteries in the service have very recently been equipped. The men have drawn heavy clothing and are prepared for the winter's journey through the Rockies, which will take more than two months.

Locked on the Arm.

Padlocks are worn this winter. Secret bracelets, bracelets that lock on the arm and are supposed never to come off, are worn as engagement bracelets. As a matter of fact, they can be taken off by the injection into the lock of a pin point.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

TO STUDY FEMALE BEAUTY.

Woman Scientist From London Will Start Her Cult In America.

Now is the time for the woman with the cross eyes, with the twisted nose or with the ears standing at right angles to her head to sit up and look cheerful, says the New York World. Relief is at hand, for Mrs. Jeannette Pomeroy, the leader of the beauty cult which is now stirring London, will soon arrive in New York to show the American women how they may become physically perfect. She taught Queen Alexandra how to retain her beauty.

In the treatments there is no need of the surgeon's knife. It is all done by mental influence. The twisted nose is guaranteed to untwist with a sufficient sniffing of delicate perfumes and incense. Harmonious music will bring the refractory ears to time, and a perpetual feast of delectable viands will give the mouth all the most desirable curves, with dimples thrown in.

As soon as Mrs. Pomeroy has scientifically ascertained the percentage of beauty in the American women, a purpose for which she intends making a tour of the continent, and has discovered whether the trend of physical charms is progressive or retrogressive she will conduct a series of free lectures in which she will point out the racial faults in form and face, locate the causes and suggest the remedies.

Mrs. Pomeroy, who for years has made a scientific study of beauty among the European and Asiatic races, will be assisted by a committee of eminent physicians, who will publish a report of her conclusions regarding American women.

"This is altogether an aesthetic and not an ethical movement," explained Charles Hemstreet, who is to act as secretary to the committee now forming. "Mrs. Pomeroy is a woman of wealth. Her idea, which is a product of Indian occultism and is not unlike the 'new thought' tendency, is to beautify the races by suggestion. A strong suggestive thought for beauty can counteract any physical blight of heredity or accident.

"Mrs. Pomeroy has succeeded in proving her theory in Europe, where she has the backing of the leading scientists. Her intention in coming here is purely philanthropic. As a lover of the beautiful she desires that all people become physically perfect. She spent years in India, where she was born and where she learned how to direct the mind so that it may have an influence over all physical defects.

"When Mrs. Pomeroy has concluded her study of American women she will conduct an investigation along the same lines of the physical characteristics of the Russians. She herself is the best proof of the efficacy of her methods. She is remarkably beautiful of perfect repose, and although she is fifty years old she looks thirty."

Toy Furniture the Fad.

One must have a lot of miniature furniture spread out on a little table if one wants to be in the extreme of fashion this year, says the New York Press. These toys for grownups have captured society's fancy. They are pronounced "quite too cute for anything." Some of the tables which have a conspicuous place in society boudoirs are laden with tiny furniture of the empire in French gilt fancifully upholstered, while others prefer furniture of carved ivory, Dutch and filagree silver. The filagree silver devices comprise chairs, sofas, dressing tables, beds and as beautifully designed coaches as one can imagine as well as most attractive motor cars. Of course the jewelers who have taken count of man's love of change and the fickleness of fashion are making the most of the fad while it lasts. They are getting fabulous prices for their wares.

Noiseless Weapon of War.

All the ingenuity of inventors of warlike machines seems to be directed toward attaining a weapon which will not only deal destruction in a wholesale manner, but will do so with the smallest chance of disclosing its location, says the Detroit News-Tribune. The latest weapon is the Humbert gun, a French invention. It makes no flash or noise and is warranted not to recoil. At the same time it discharges projectiles, each of which contains 250 shot, at the rate of 1,200 an hour. Four miles from this gun a regiment of 1,000 wooden men was stationed. The gun opened fire on the dummies for a minute, and almost every wooden man was found to be hit.

A Certain Boy.

He doesn't like to go to bed,
And getting up is worse.
To washing, too, I've heard it said,
He's just as much adverse.

And for school and studying
When he would rather roam,
He hates it more than anything
But doing work at home.

I must admit that it is true,
Though 'tis a sorry boast,
Whatever he is told to do
Is what he hates the most.

I do suppose that if he chose
What he should do all day,
He'd play and eat awhile, and then
He'd eat awhile and play.

Miniature Autos on Bracelets.

Speaking of the trend of fashion in different directions word comes from abroad that one of the newest fads, which is unique in its freakishness, is the automobile bracelet, says a writer in the New York Press. It is composed of a chain made up entirely of tiny gold and jeweled motor cars. The lamps are composed of tiny diamonds, and every detail is carefully carried out. In spite of the value of the jewels and metals employed the real cost of such a bit of jewelry comes from the workmanship.

EXCURSIONS TO THE WEST

To the Pacific Coast—to California, Oregon, Washington—round-trip, long transit and return limits, liberal stop-over privileges.

The rate is practically on the basis of one fare for the round trip. Of course, if you wish to visit both California and Oregon or Washington, the cost is slightly more.

These reduced rates are in effect on certain dates in months of May to October, inclusive. They apply from all Eastern points via Chicago, St. Louis or Memphis gateways. The Rock Island System will take you up in either Chicago or St. Louis, or at hundreds of other Middle West points and carry you to the Coast in through Standard or Tourist Sleepers with unexcelled Dining Car service. The Rock Island also affords a choice of routes: on the "Scenic" route you can stop off in Colorado—see Salt Lake City—visit Yellowstone National Park; on the "Southern" route you can go via El Paso, thru New Mexico, then "up coast" to San Francisco and on to Portland or Seattle if desired.

In short, these Pacific Coast excursions offer an unusually good chance to see our western country in a comprehensive manner.

If you desire to go only as far as Colorado, there are excursion rates in effect to that section and return, all summer long, specially reduced June 30 to July 4, August 12 and 13, and August 30 to September 4. Extension trips to Ogden or Salt Lake and return at low cost also.

From September 15 to October 31, 1905, one-way tourist or "colonist" tickets will be on sale to California and the Pacific Northwest—about half regular fare.

If interested, send name and address on this coupon, designating which booklet wanted and to what point you plan to go. Name probable date of start also, so we can advise definitely with respect to rates, etc.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE.

Closed Friday Morning With Very Interesting Talks.

Thursday morning at the usual hour of 9 o'clock the teachers again convened. The day was opened by singing the Doxology. Rev. Geo. I. Brown then led in the Responsive Reading, and in repeating the "Apostles Creed" and "Lord's Prayer" followed by the Invocation.

Rev. Schmidt then gave a talk on the seeing of beauty in nature. The truth was demonstrated by means of wild flowers, so that in reality it was a Botany study. He spoke of the many pleasures and delights in the finding and identification of the shy and beautiful Trailing Arbutus of the Blue and White violets and all of the many spring flowers. Then of those flowers which blossom in the middle of summer, those commonly called weeds In England our abundant golden rod is cultivated as a rare and beautiful flower. In the Autumn and far into the winter months we have other sturdy plants which mature late in the season. Notice was called to the change of color as the summer advanced, and other characteristics of the flowers which were of general interest. To his mind the identification of our common flowers should be taught in our schools, and to this result his talk was directed.

Dr. Murphy then continued his instruction on history. He believed in associating events in regard to specially important dates, much in the same manner as clothes are hung on pegs. The dates served as means to support that which is necessary to the train of events, or history. He also encouraged the plan of associating events by means of important names. Take for instance the name of Washington. He took some event in his administration and so worded it as to start with W, the next was A. and so on until the letters of the name are exhausted as well as the events.

After his address a recess was allowed, when Prof. Coughlin again took up the subject of Arithmetic. He said "Illustrate in the concrete only when necessary." By meaus of figures he proved the method by which he claimed the attention of children, and caused them to reason out the answers desired, by dividing a square into four equal parts he would impress the idea and meaning of one-fourth. Different ways of dividing the square were used, such as drawing the diagonals, the meridians, etc. This occupied the time till noon when the meeting was dismissed.

At 2 o'clock the meeting again convened. During the day the committee on Elections had met, and the following names were placed in nomination:

For Vice President: F. Milford Pletcher; H. C. Rothrock; J. C. Morris; and W. P. Hosterman.

For Secretary: Miss Mary Penney, and Miss Jennie Sweetwood.

Dr. Murphy then spoke on the management of a bad boy so called. Whether or not a boy is recognized as bad depends directly upon the care and environments to which he is subjected. If the parent expects the teacher to assume the entire responsibility of a boy, the attempt at developement in the right direction is apt to end in failure. So on the other hand, if the child is left entirely under the care of the parent the same results will follow. How then can a boy be brought into the full stature of young manhood? Let the parent and teacher stand hand in-hand in the endeavor to advance the standard of life in the boy, entering into his own existence and guiding him onward and upward. So shall success be attained.

After Dr. Murphy's address a short recess was allowed, and the candidates for office were voted for by the teachers. The result was not announced. Prof. Coughlin occupied the last period of the afternoon. His subject was the "Revival of the art of Teaching." To-day we have the greatest number of great schools in the history of education. In former times the school as a unit was great, but today we have great school systems. The instructor should never make up in instruction what a child should do in preparation.

The underlying characteristic of European schools is the presentation of lessons, but in American the aim is to guide the student in the work of deriving from books that which is essential to education. The great work of the the teacher is to stimulate a line of effort on the part of the pupil. To aid him or her to self-helpfulness and self-support, have an ideal clearly defined and work up to it. This closed the session for the day.

During the entire week there has been a steady attendance of teachers, all of whom have displayed great interest. The meetings have been more largely attended than ever before, not only have the teachers displayed the determination to profit by them, but the parents, friends, and directors have been present. However, the behavior and general orderliness has been considerably above that of some othar Institutes which have been held in past years.

The Institute opened promptly at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. After singing the Doxology and "Nearer My God to Thee" Rev. John A. Wood, Jr., led the teachers in scripture reading followed by the invocation.

The first period of the morning was occupied by Prof Albert. He spoke of the application of Herbarts method of teaching. First came the preparation of each lesson thoughtfully and carefully by the teacher. Presentation to the scholar was the next step touched upon. Not the matter contained between the covers of the book in question, but all knowledge of the subject which would be helpful, and of interest. If this is done faithfully and well it will enable the pupil, first to see combinations, the relation existing between those portions of truth which specially affects them. Association of the differet lessons, and those which follow from day to day, will soon become a habit in the life of the pupil. But the final aim must be the application on the part of the scholar, of the knowledge he has acquired. When any teacher succeeds in doing this he has reached the zenith of his efforts. "School teaching is the art of some-time, some-where, some-how, every day making every child see God."

Supt. James M. Coughlin, of Wilkesbarre, in his first address, spoke of the "Relation of Language to Arithmetic." To his mind the most difficult part of arithmetic to master was the langnage, the recognition of terms, and the proper interpretation of the language in order to bring out the meaning intended. In support of the statements he cited experiences of his son, and himself, in trying to learn Bank Discount and Calculus respectively, without a complete knowledge of the terms used, after they were mastered, no diffilculty arose. We must distinguish the difference between thinking and tools of thought.

A recess of ten minutes was then allowed. Dr. Wolfe, a former County Superintendent, then gave a short speech. He stated that it had been 53 years since he first became a member of the Centre County Institute. The teachers of his day were to him giants. those among the best it has been his privilege to know. He then referred to the true life every school teacher should live in order to accomplish the great service to which they are called.

Prof. Albert then gave his farewell address to the members of the institute he urged them to measure up to the high standard necessary in one who is to lead fellow mortals. His visit to a school which in his mind was an ideal one was then given and he closed. Prof. Albert, in his short stay in our midst, has made an impression for good on the minds of our teachers, which will not soon or easily be effaced. It was with a feeling akin to sorrow that they heard he had to depart on the afternoon train for his home. Institute then adjourned until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The first period of the afternoon was occupied by Dr. Murphy, he spoke of the "Daily Work" of the teachers. The proper care should be taken to keep the yard and the building, both inside and outside in as neat and inviting a condition as possible Care of the children was another feature touched upon Sanitary conditions should be examined and remedied or improved by the teacher and school board The purposes which prompt the actions of scholars should also be taken into consideration. He then spoke about the critical days in the school year.

The day after election, the day after Thanksgiving, ground-hog day. Valentine day and the first of April are all specially liable to be off days with the pupils, and accordingly to increase the trouble of the teacher. However, there is a reason for each one, and any annoyances should be met in the spirit in which it was intended. This closed his address and a short recess was allowed. Prof. Coughlin then spoke of school discipline. Every teacher should handle the school in such a manner as to wear as little as possible on both scholars and instructors Self-control is a pure unadulterated sympathy for humanity, therefore a teacher who has self-control is better fitted for teaching than otherwise, and will have less trouble in discipline. This ended institute until 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

The last session of the institute met at 7:30 Friday morning. Responsive reading and the Invocation were conducted by Rev. Black, of the Reformed church of Boalsburg. An hour was then given over to the discussion of points of interest to the teachers.

Ex-Senator Heinle discussed the legality of the vaccination and Compulsory Education Laws, these two acts conflict but it was decided that unless in case of an epidemic the Compulsory Education Law must claim precedence.

Prof. Coughlin also spoke upon the subject and gave his opinion of the right course for the teacher to pursue.

The report of the several committees was then read and approved. That on legislation had not accomplished any thing as no meeting of the legislature would render neccessary their work,

The committee on display had received only a few pieces of work, so had not placed them on exhibition. Prof. J. D. Meyer was appointed chairman again for next year and promised a good display should the teachers contribute the work of their schools Prof J. E. Wagner then announced that examinations for permanent certificates would be held in Bellefonte the 13th, and 14th of April. Mr. John S. Hosterman announced the result of the balloting on Thursday.

1st Vice President, W. P. Hosterman
2nd Vice President, F. M. Pletcher.
Secretary, Miss Mary E. Penney.

Dr. D. D. Murphy then delivered a farewell address in which he commended the work of the week to the attention of the teachers, and thanked them for the interest they had displayed

Rev Ambrose M. Schmidt then made a short speech, expressing the hope that some good had been accomplished during the week, and that the teachers would apply the advice they had received. After the short recess allowed Prof James M Coughlin then delivered his last address of the week. The subject was "Thoroughness of Teaching." In order to be thorough was it necessary to graduate only a few, and allow the remainder to fall by the wayside. To give low grades in study. No, when the work is raised to a high standard, and many pupils may graduate the school is thorough in that particular. The chief fault of inefficiency was the lack of preparation. Concert and volunteer recitations did not seem to Mr. Coughlin as the best method of testing the ability of a class. He believed in individual tests as often as possible. By means of a chart be demonstrated the amount of time to be devoted to the different studies in succeeding years. This closed his address and it is noteworthy that every instructor specially spoke of the good order and interest displayed by the teachers of our Institute. Thus ended the fifty-ninth annual institute, one of the most successful ever held.

Of all the lecturers who have appeared in our city, Mr. Wm. Hawley Smith will rank in importance second to none. From beginning to end he held the close attention and interest of a large audience. The subject, "We, The People." was not intended to be merely a humorous one It was based upon fact and sound common sense. He spoke of the new condition of affairs rendered possible by the great advance in machinery. Of the great mass of people, and its constituent part. What will be the future of our nation, the grandest on earth? The schools and homes of our country must determine that. He believed that the courses of study must be so changed as to fit every person best for whatever occupation or vocation he was best adapted, and backed up his every statement by sound argument. Those who listened to him could not help but be impressed with the magnitude of responsibility resting upon the teachers and parents of our country and should endeavor in future to discharge their manifest duty to the best of their ability.

Giant Kansas Corn.

A report which seems to have come from the Portland Exposition states that a great object of curiosity there was a corn stalk of mammoth size reaching almost up to the very roof of the agricultural building. The history of the stalk is perhaps as marvelous as the object itself.

It appears that prior to the last hot wave which swept over the country, a farmer in Kansas sent his fifteen year-old son to take a look over the corn field and notify him of the prospects. In order to do this the son went to the implement shed which this wise farmer had provided and secured a ladder with which he climbed one of the cornstalks. After surveying a fine growth of corn for miles around the boy started to climb down, but in his excitement at the prospects of the golden harvest which his father would reap, he had failed to notice the rapidity of the growth of the stalk which he had ascended. As quickly as he stepped down, so much more rapidly the stalk seemed to grow, and he was no nearer the bottom than when he started.

His father noting the absence of his son, saw that it would be useless for him to hunt through the jungle of waving corn, so he climbed to the top of his windmill and his anxious eyes beheld his boy waving a red handkerchief in despair.

Hastily summoning his neighbor and his other two sturdy sons, they proceeded with axes to chop down the wicked stalk. Their axes, however, failed to find the same mark twice, so rapidly did the stock shoot upward. Night came on without their accomplishing anything and the boy was left to what appeared to be a terrible fate. Like most Kansas boys, however, he was awake to all his opportunities, and existed for a long time on the raw corn, having consumed so much that he later notified his parents by means of a message written on one side of the dried corn leaves that he was getting so fat there was danger of the stalk breaking with its weight. He wrote that he believed a more balanced ration would relieve his fears, suggesting the planting of beans at the base of the corn stalk as an expedient.

However, before the beans could secure enough growth, the drouth came on and stopped the growth of the stalk and the boy was enabled to climb down, thus saving his life. As mementos of the occasion, the lad gathered up the corn cobs which he had thrown down from his lofty seat, amounting to something over four bushels and a peck and on these he has been working, turning them into corn-cob pipes which he was exhibiting at the Truth Bureau of Portland Exposition.

WAR ON BLACK HAND.

Catholic Priest's Effective Work Against Lawless Band.

SEVERAL CONVICTIONS THUS FAR

Father Anthony Cerutti, Who Is a "Marked Man," Has Organized Five Protective Societies In Pennsylvania Coal Region—Relentless War to Be Continued.

Although Rev. Anthony Cerutti, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel at Carbondale, Pa., is a "marked man," he continues to wage a relentless war against the Mafia and the Black Hand societies, agents of which for years past have extorted money from the Italians of that part of the state, says a special dispatch from Wilkesbarre, Pa., to the New York World. Father Cerutti, who managed to drive them out of Carbondale by organizing leading Italians of the town into the St. Joseph's Protective society, is now extending his work to adjoining towns and organizing similar societies. Since the 1st of November protective societies have been formed in Old Forge, Dunmore and Archbold, and the priest is now organizing another at Pittston, where there have been within the year five mysterious murders attributed to the Mafia or the Black Hand.

Father Cerutti was first aroused several months ago by a serious of outrages against his countrymen in and about Carbondale. The police, although anxious to make arrests, were baffled by the silence of the victims. Relatives and friends of a man who had been murdered declined to furnish any information, and those who had been shot or stabbed or suffered the famous "face cut" were also silent and would give the police no information. Father Cerutti found they were so afraid of their persecutors, part of whose business was to terrorize the ignorant Italians, that they were afraid to give information, because they feared that the Black Hand or the Mafia would kill them.

Father Cerutti and an Italian detective then commenced an investigation. They found that there were agents of the Mafia and the Black Hand living in the town. It was their duty to keep a list of "subscribers," as they were called, and to collect the money which they paid for protection each month. Regularly each month higher agents from New York visited the colony and dealt with any Italians who refused to pay the local committee by trying to terrify them. If they failed to do this, there arrived in a neighboring town a few days or a week or so later a couple of quiet, determined men. They were "the avengers," so called. They were taken to the town where the victim lived. He was pointed out to them and at a convenient time he was lured from home or as he was going home late out of the darkness came the blow, whether shot, stiletto or bludgeon, and as quickly as they could the avengers returned to New York, while the men who might have been suspected were seen at public places at the time the blow was struck.

The speed with which refusal to pay was punished and the mysterious manner in which punishment was dealt all aided in terrifying the general body of Italians and making the work of the collecting committee easy and also prevented the stricken ones and their friends giving the police any aid. The amount of tribute differed. Some were compelled to pay as much as $20 a month, others only a few dollars. At times a man who the agents believed had saved some money was called upon to pay a large amount, $50, $100 or more.

Several vain efforts were made to arrest and prosecute the agents, and at last Father Cerutti and a number of prominent Italians met quietly, organized the St. Joseph's Protective society and pledged themselves, whatever the consequences, to do all in their power to drive out the human leeches. As a result of this determination and the confidence and protection the society inspired evidence was gradually collected and arrests followed. Some who gave information were assaulted, some shot down and others stabbed, but this only caused more arrests. A couple of leaders escaped by providing heavy bail and forfeiting it, but several were tried and convicted and are now in the penitentiary. This effectively frightened members of the two societies away from the Carbondale colony of Italians. The boldest and most vicious are those in and about Pittston.

Only the other day it is alleged that they spread the report among the Italians that a bank in Pittston was about to fail. In consequence there was a rush to draw out the money, and in this way agents ascertained who had money. A number of them were boldly robbed, and others are now being subjected to the ordeal of terror to make them give up their money.

Father Cerutti is going to organize a protective society there. "It is a bad place for them," he said, referring to the Black Hand and the Mafia. "They are very bold, and we will try to get them out of the region and remove forever the blot upon my countrymen." He said he knew that he was a marked man and added, "But even if they do get me the society is now so well organized that the work will go on just the same."

—The Bellefonte Turnpike company greatly improved the road over Nittany mountain during the past summer. The last improvement was the building of a guard rail almost the whole distance over the mountains and through the gap. Had she lived until Christmas she would have rounded out the three score years, having been born December 25, 1845. She was the second wife of H. Crownover; besides him three step daughters are living; Bessie, at home, Lottie, of Denver, and Mrs W. W. Long, of Mill Creek.

—One of the principal topics of conversation in Huntingdon these days, says the Globe, is the fate that awaits the Wilson Electric Co., which is now pressing for the passage of an ordinance permitting it to come into town for the purpose of furnishing electric light and power. The sentiment is very much one sided, being in favor of the company, and it is believed that the town council will put the ordinance through on final passage at its next meeting, Tuesday evening, December 5th. The ordinance was introduced at the September meeting when it passed reading by a unanimous vote. At the November meeting of council the measure passed second reading by a vote of 11 to 3, and the friends of the bill believe it will go through on final passage by as large a vote on the night of December 5th. Town council will receive proposals said ordinance to the lighting of the town for a period of six years, dating from Jan 1, 1907 when the present contract with the Huntingdon Gas Co. expires.

The Lyric Glee Club.

Although Bellefonte has witnessed many such entertainments as was presented at the Teachers' Institute, it would be difficult to find one which has given more general satisfaction. Every member of the Club was a genius of his art, and without exception the pieces rendered were of a high standard. Miss Mary Agnes Doyle as Reader was also a genius in her line, and was very much appreciated for her efforts.

Simon Cameron Burnside.

The remains of the late S. Cameron Burnside arrived in Bellefonte Wednesday afternoon at 4:10 and were taken to St. John's Catholic church where brief services were held after which interment was made in the Burnside family lot in the Union cemetery. The Philadelphia Inquirer gives the following account of his life:

Simon Cameron Burnside, a grandson of Simon Cameron, and a member of the official staff of the City Controller, died on Sunday at his home, 4110 Spruce street, from a complication of kidney and other diseases. He was 56 years old.

Besides coming from most distinguished lineage Mr. Burnside has played a notable part in public life himself, being before his connection with the City Controller's office, an officer in the United States Navy. He was the personal friend of many prominent politicians in Pennsylvania.

He was ill last spring and sought health in the mountains of Pennsylvania and later at Atlantic City. He seemed to have improved when he returned to the city, and his death was unlooked for.

Mr. Burnside was born at Bellefonte on February 4, 1849. He was the oldest son of Judge James Burnside, the grandson of Judge Burnside, of the Supreme Court. He was educated at Princeton, later being appointed an officer in the United States Navy. Commander Burnside was paymaster on the flagship Tennessee in 1873, seeing service during that troublesome time in Chinese waters.
